

'We'll shut you down, raid homes': Ex-Twitter CEO Dorsey on pressure from India

New Delhi, June 13 (IANS) Former Twitter CEO Jack Dorsey, in an exploratory remark, has claimed that India had put pressure on the micro-blogging platform, including giving threats of winding it down and conducting raids on employees' homes.

During an interview with YouTube channel Breaking Points late on Monday, Dorsey said that the threats came as Twitter refused to comply with the government's demands to block accounts during the farmers' protests in early 2021.

"We would raid the homes of your employees," which they did; we will shut down your offices if you don't follow suit. And this is India, a democratic country," Dorsey said on the channel when asked to share some examples of pressure from foreign governments during his tenure, before Elon Musk took over.

"India is a country that had many requests of us around the farmers' protest, around particular journalists that were critical of the government, and it manifested in ways such as 'we will shut Twitter down in India', which is a very large market for us," Dorsey further said.

The government was yet to respond to Dorsey's allegation. Last year, Twitter told the Karnataka High Court that it was asked to completely block numerous multiple accounts during the farmers' agitation on the borders of Delhi in 2021.

Twitter, in its petition before the High Court, maintained that blocking orders by the Union government violate the rights of users under the Constitution. The petition also describes the move of the government as arbitrary and in violation of Section 69 A of the IT Act.

The Central government maintained that the blocking orders were issued in the national and public interest, and action was taken to prevent lynching and mob violence.

Pfizer and GSK to battle for share of new RSV vaccine market: Report

New Delhi, June 13 (IANS) US drugmaker Pfizer and British pharma major GSK are likely to face significant competition in the respiratory syncytial virus (RSV) vaccine market, according to a report on Tuesday.

GSK's novel vaccine, Arexvy, approved by the US FDA in May, becomes the first RSV vaccine authorised for use in America.

It was recently also approved by the European Commission (EC) for the prevention of lower respiratory tract infections (LRTI) caused by RSV in adults 60 years of age and older, making it the first RSV vaccine available across the EU.

Despite these landmark approvals, GSK's dominance in the untapped RSV vaccine space is under threat by Pfizer which is in hot pursuit for market share of its own RSV vaccine Abrysvo, said the report by GlobalData, a leading data and analytics company. "While Arexvy was first to gain US approval, which marked the first time a vaccine was authorised for use against RSV in any population, anywhere in the world, Pfizer's Abrysvo was approved by the FDA quickly after, allowing sufficient time for both vaccines to be available for US launch around the same time this fall, prior to the winter RSV season," said Nancy Jaser, Pharma Analyst at GlobalData, in a statement.

"Therefore, GSK is not likely to experience a significant first-mover advantage for market share in the US. However, Arexvy may still benefit from a first-mover advantage in the EU as Pfizer's Abrysvo has yet to gain approval for use by the EC. A decision is expected later this year," Jaser added.

While both vaccines demonstrated high efficacy in pivotal trials, Pfizer's vaccine has one critical advantage over Arexvy. Abrysvo is currently under review in the US as a maternal vaccine to protect infants against RSV right at birth. The FDA's Vaccines Advisory Committee voted in favour of approving Abrysvo as a maternal RSV vaccine, the report said. "Abrysvo will likely be the first approved RSV vaccine to protect infants worldwide, potentially leading to a higher market share than its competitors. It is currently the only vaccine candidate in late-stage development that targets multiple patient segments," Jaser said. Further competition is expected from Moderna's RSV vaccine, mRNA-1345. Positive Phase III data in older adults were announced in January, while Moderna plans to file for US approval in the first half of 2023. mRNA-1345 is likely to be the first mRNA-based RSV vaccine to reach the market. As an RNA virus, RSV is capable of rapid mutation to escape attack by new pharmaceuticals. Novel RSV variants could emerge as a result, requiring adjustments to vaccine targets," Jaser said.

India shows strong hiring outlook in Q3 despite global layoffs: Report

New Delhi, June 13 (IANS) India is among the Asia-Pacific countries that show the strongest outlook towards increasing headcount and a positive hiring scenario in the third quarter this year, a report showed on Tuesday.

According to the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey, India with 36 per cent is among the top five countries with the highest positive hiring outlook in the July-September period.

India has been ranked fifth after Australia in the global list.

The labour market in the country is showing positive sentiments in the third quarter of 2023 amid global layoffs and global macro-economic conditions, said the report.

Employers across APAC anticipate increasing headcount (+31 per cent), further improving when compared to the previous quarter (+4 per cent) but slightly weakening year-over-year (-1 per cent).

"All regions showed a net positive hiring outlook, though hiring plans are weaker year-over-year globally, the findings showed.

Digital roles continue to drive the most demand globally with businesses in the IT industry reporting the brightest outlook for the third time this year but weakening -7 per cent compared with Q3 2022.
